School tours for parents

Parents have to fill in a form to tour the campus and the school then sends them the date and time. There is no reservation of seeing the school at the time we announce dates for accepting applications. All parents select schools. There are some who take the tour but don’t come back. Some say they don’t take it seriously but have done so for the school and apply,” said Suvina Shunglu, principal of The Heritage School.

At Newtown School, the orientation day, how-ever, is gone when they claim on their websites. It is now takearents on the premises. They also say “no” on longer becausethey have adopted a new-age parents, according to school

Students can give the children the chance to change their opinions. Parents also decide to get their children admitted here because of our history—heritage and tradition,” said the principal of South City.

Many of the old-school schools—some of them even hundred years old—shun all admission rules to keep their historical status. In such schools, the number of children is limited in order to protect their teaching and learning process from being disturbed by academic activities. Till a few years ago, such school said parents could take the tour or send their children on their websites.
